Section 1. Introduction

a. Purpose – This Manual sets forth policies and procedures for all watercraft recreation, hunting, and fishing activities on Fort Belvoir. It applies to all individuals that participate in these activities on Fort Belvoir.

b. Background – Fort Belvoir provides numerous recreational opportunities whether consumptive or non-consumptive. Opportunities can be found in various public areas on post (e.g., the three designated installation refuges - Accotink Bay Wildlife Refuge (ABWR), Jackson Miles Abbott Wetland Refuge (JMAWR), and T-17; and Tompkins Basin). Other opportunities such as hunting take place in areas off-limits to the public and must be accessed through authorized use only. Fort Belvoir's location also provides miles of shoreline accessible by foot or watercraft for fishing.

Hunting has long been documented to serve as a wildlife management tool while providing recreational opportunities for the public. Fort Belvoir uses bowhunting as the primary tool in the management of white-tailed deer. White-tailed deer populations, if left unmanaged, can become not only a threat to their own health and environment, but also to humans. Overall deer herd health is attributed to population size and adequacy of food resources. More than a decade ago, Fort Belvoir's deer population was at a dangerously high level, causing the deer to be in poor health, and leading to a diminished understory. That situation contributed to disease breakouts such as epizootic hemorrhagic disease (EHD) as well as ecosystem degradation. In response, Fort Belvoir implemented a more expansive and robust hunting program. This, coupled with liberal seasons and bag limits set by the Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources (VDWR) for the county, has resulted in an increase in harvest, decline in population, and improvement in herd health and ecosystem.

Hunting is also used as a management tool to control Canada geese. Fort Belvoir's proximity to water resources, parks, golf courses, and recreation fields makes it a very attractive location for Canada geese. As with deer, if left unmanaged, Canada geese can become a nuisance in these locations, and more importantly a hazard to aircraft approaching and departing Fort Belvoir's Davison Army Airfield (DAAF). In 2006 Fort Belvoir implemented a waterfowl hunting program as a recreational opportunity, while at the same time being used as a tool to control Canada geese.

Fishing has taken place for decades on Fort Belvoir, including Mulligan Pond within JMAWR, and the Tompkins Basin shoreline. There are three fishing piers at Mulligan Pond that offer opportunities for easy access. In 2008, two fishing piers were constructed in Tompkins Basin to replace those taken out by a hurricane. All fishing piers are accessible to persons with disabilities. Numerous fish species can be caught in the waters in and around Fort Belvoir, particularly channel catfish, largemouth bass, and various species of sunfish. In 2004, the invasive northern snakehead was discovered in the Potomac watershed and has since become a common resident and highly sought-after species by both those that fish and bowfish. In 2023, rainbow trout were stocked in Mulligan Pond for the first time, providing an additional and unique fishing opportunity for the public.

c. Liability – All persons engaging in watercraft recreation, hunting, and fishing on Fort Belvoir do so at their own risk and agree to indemnify and hold harmless Fort Belvoir and the United States of America against any and all claims for loss or damage to their person or property.

d. Revisions and Summary of Changes – This Manual will be reviewed and updated annually to ensure compliance with the United States Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS), Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources (VDWR), and Fort Belvoir policies and procedures. A Record of Revisions and a Summary of Changes can be found on page 2 of this manual.

a. Purpose

- The WRHFRB reviews major watercraft recreation, hunting, and fishing offenses and violations of (to include but not limited to) Fort Belvoir policies, memoranda, and all local, state, and federal laws. The WRHFRB is comprised of representatives from DPW, DPTMS, DES, and DFMWR.
- The WRHFRB may recommend changes to the status of a participant's privileges on the Fort Belvoir military installation. The Garrison Commander has the authority to take those actions necessary to maintain morale, welfare, and safety on Fort Belvoir. The commander's authority includes the power to restrict or deny on-post privileges to participants who commit offenses and/or violations on Fort Belvoir. In this regard, the Garrison Commander delegates his/her decision authority to the Director of the Directorate of Public Works (DPW). The WRHFRB will review offenses and violations and make a written recommendation on privilege restriction and/or status change to the DPW, who will then make the final decision and notify the participant.
- DPW and DES are authorized to suspend participants on the spot for violations and/or offenses. DPW will assign holds to the violator's account and prohibit access to checking in and out of activities using iSportsman.

b. Minor Violation/Offense

- Minor violations/offense include, but are not limited to, violations of regulations; parking vehicles or launching boats from a trailer in an unauthorized area; falsifying information on a participant's account registration; failing to display properly a parking permit; failing to turn in a harvested deer jaw bone at check-in; attempting to monopolize hunting slots by making slot reservations and canceling; failing to cancel a reservation within the specified timeframe; failing to sign in or out from a slot by the required time; failing to maintain current information on the account registration; failing to report promptly accurate fish and game harvest data.
- Minor violations/offenses may warrant automatic suspensions of up to 30 days. The length of the suspension will vary based on the circumstances of the minor violation and/or offense. The DPW-Conservation Branch and the DES may suspend participants for minor violations and offenses without involving the WRHFRB process.
- Participants may request that a minor violation be reviewed by the WRHFRB. If this request is granted, the WRHFRB process would start at phase three (see section g. Process).

c. Major Violations/Offense

- Any criminal act
- Two minor offenses in a 12-month period
- Trespassing in closed/restricted areas and/or aiding unauthorized trespass of others
- Violation of the Quality Deer Management Program

- PHASE 2: WRHFRB Notification - The DPW-Conservation Branch and/or the Federal Game Warden will notify the WRHFRB that there has been a major violation and/or offense and to expect a written rebuttal from the participant within 30 calendar days.
- PHASE 3: The Written Rebuttal - Participants who receive a violation notification will be provided the opportunity to submit a written rebuttal. The rebuttal must be received within 30 calendar days of the notice. The participant will remain suspended until a rebuttal is received, reviewed by the WRHFRB, and a final decision is made by the DPW. If a rebuttal is not provided to the WRHFRB by the participant within 30 calendar days of official notice, the WRHFRB will proceed in making a final recommendation to the DPW without information from the participant. Failure to successfully rebut within 30 calendar days may result in permanent privilege and status loss.
- PHASE 4: WRHFRB Discussion - All members of the WRHFRB or their representatives will meet to discuss the received written rebuttals, as needed. Rebuttals received from participants will be reviewed by the WRHFRB within 10 business days.
- PHASE 5: Written Recommendation - The WRHFRB will make decisions by majority vote and make a written privilege or status change recommendation to the DPW.
- PHASE 6: DPW Final Decision - The Director will review the WRHFRB recommendation and within 10 business days provide the participant with a final written decision.
- PHASE 7: Option for Appeal - The participant may appeal the final decision and outcome of the WRHFRB process to the Garrison Commander.
